

Got unwanted print jobs piling up in a stack?
Return them to us, we'll take them back.

We take what you give us and feed all the stuff to our huge hungry shredder that can't get enough.

Shredded pieces are bundled like huge bales of hay.
Recycled they'll be, we won't throw them away.

Let's make the effort for our children to see, so they'll take care of the aina and the keiki to be.

Our PaperBack Program is an eco-friendly effort involving you and us. We want you to return your unwanted out-of-date print jobs to us so we can have the paper recycled.

At places where we make regular deliveries, we'll even pick up the unwanted print jobs. For those who come to our facility, we'll have a convenient drop-off area where you can unload your out-of-date printed material.

To handle the loads of paper, we have invested in an industrial shredder and baling system. Once baled, the huge bundles will be shipped off for recycling. Our own waste paper amounts to 140 tons per month, so by recycling we are freeing up a lot of space at the city dump. With your help we can make a molehill out of a mountain of trash!
